1. This Office Action is the answer to the communication received on 7/12/2004 (the Response to Restriction Requirement).

Status of the Claims

2. Claims 15-22, and 24-37 are elected without traverse.

Response:

3. The examiner is unpersuasive with applicant's arguments (received on 1/23/2004); on page 12, last paragraph, the applicant argues a computer fundamental feature of "saving search queries" or "analyzing of search queries", the examiner hereby shows that the applicant submits an IDS of Wiecha (US Pat. 5,870,717), and that reference discloses that feature in 6:34 and 6:46.

On page 13, para. 5, the applicant argues that amended claim 15 is more clearly distinguish from the scenario asserted by the examiner; however, Fisher (US Pat. 6,331,858) discloses about presenting different web pages for searching and for selecting (see Fisher, claims 6, 27) - note that some claimed languages of this claim do not necessarily contributing to the claimed step of presenting.

On page 14, section V: "Newly added claims 32-37 involving analysis of search query histories of users", Gardenswartz et al., (US Pat. 6,055,573) disclose an analytic unit 16 coupled to a purchase history database 8, performing the claimed feature (see Gardenswartz et al., 6:63 to 7:10; and 15:20-23).

The examiner submits that other limitations that belong to not-elected claims but presenting arguments on 1/23/2004 are moot.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office Action:

a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 15-22, 24-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C.

§ 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowman et al. (US Pat.
6,169,986), in view of Fisher (US Pat. 6,331,858) and further, in view of the Official Notice.

As best understood, Bowman et al. teach a method/system using a computer system connecting to a network, comprising steps of:

- receiving a search query from a user (see Bowman et al., Figs. 1-2, & 4).
- Applying/executing the search query to an electronic catalog to generate a search results list (see Bowman et al., Figs. 9, please note that Bowman et al. inherently teach about searching an electronic catalog of amazon.com).

- Displaying/presenting search results list to the user for viewing (see Bowman et al., Fig.4 - refs. 430-440, & Fig.6).
- presenting the user an option to save the query (see Bowman et al., the abstract, please note that for searching, a user uses a computer with Windows software that having claimed capability of this option: saving a search query with a name).

Bowman et al. do not disclose about presenting different web pages for searching and for selecting; however, Fisher (US Pat. 6,331,858) discloses about presenting different web pages for searching and for selecting (see Fisher, claims 6, 27) - note that some claimed languages of this claim do not necessarily contributing to the claimed step of presenting.

- The examiner submits that Bowman et al. also teach a structure to perform above limitations (of claim 15) in his invention as claimed in pending claim 24.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Bowman et al., and Fisher because those are available knowledge for searching on the Internet at the time of invention using by Bowman and Fisher, and it would make the search process being organized and time-saving in looking for specific ordering/searching items.

5. Claims 15-22, 32-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowman et al. (US Pat. 6,169,986), in view of Fisher (US Pat. 6,331,858) and further in view of the Official Notice.

As best understood, Bowman et al. teach a method using a computer system connecting to a network.

The Official Notice is taken that MS Windows having features to storing a search query as defined by a user (e.g., a specific search command can be saved using Windows); and a user can browse a catalog of amazon.com website using said stored search query (e.g., for non-fiction books vs. fiction books categories .etc.), and using merchant-defined categories (e.g., books vs. electronic equipment categories from amazon.com).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Bowman et al., Fisher, amazon.com, Inc.'s business practice with the taken Official Notice because it would make the search process being organized and time-saving in looking for specific ordering/searching items.

Conclusion

6. Claims 15-22, 24-37 are not patentable. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than 6 MONTHS from the date of this final action.
